Blankets and Bedding.

Months ago, when the tariff bill was but a matter of conjecture, we placed our orders for Blankets, at the prices then prevailing—prices that proved to be the very lowest on record. Ever since then prices have been advancing, until today, they are nearly 30 per cent higher.

We propose to give our patrons the benefit of our early purchases, by offering in this sale Blankets of the very first grades at prices that will never again be possible when the present supply has been exhausted.

THE PLATFORM.

The Convention of Labor Makes Its Sentiments Known.

Permanent Government by Injunction as It Applies to the Great Strike of the Coal Miners.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 31.—The delegates to the convention of labor leaders were slow in assembling this morning, and it was nearly an hour after the time set for the meeting before the body was called to order. The delay was due to the committee on resolutions, which sent word that it was not ready to report.

It was 10 o'clock when the committee on resolutions filed into the hall and the delegates were called to order to hear its report. Mr. Berger, in presenting the resolutions, spoke of the great task the committee had before it. He said the report about to be submitted was the best the committee could do under the circumstances.

THE PLATFORM.

The fear of the more watchful fathers of the republic has been justified. The judiciary has become supreme. We witness a political phenomenon absolutely new in the history of the world; a republic prostrate at the feet of judges appointed to administer its laws. They acknowledge no superior on earth, and their despotic deeds recall Milton's warning to his countrymen: "Who bids a man rule over him above law, may bid as well a savage beast."

Under the cunning form of injunction, courts have assumed to enact criminal laws and after thus drawing to themselves the power of legislation, have repealed the bill of right and for violations of these court made laws, have denied the accused the right of trial by jury. The exercise of the commonest rights of freemen—the right of assembly, the right of free speech, the right of traveling the public highways, have by legislation, under the form of injunctions, been made a crime and armed forces disperse as mobs people daring in company to exercise these rights. At its last term, the supreme court of the United States decided that the thirteenth amendment, forbidding involuntary servitude is not violated by arresting a seaman, imprisoning him until his vessel is ready to leave port, and then forcibly putting him on board to serve out the term of his contract; a decision under which the old fugitive slave laws may yet be revived and striking laborers be seized and returned to the service of their masters.

Having drawn to themselves all the powers of the federal government, until congress and presidents may act only by judicial permission, the federal judges have begun the subjugation of sovereign states so that, unless a check is soon put upon the progress of usurpation, in a short time no government but the absolute despotism of federal judges will exist anywhere over any portion of American soil.

The pending strike of coal miners, starved to feebleness by their scant wages, by arduous and dangerous toil, the pending strike for the right to be fed enough to make labor possible, has been prolific of judicial usurpation, showing the willingness of judicial despots to resort to the most shameless defiance of decency, as well as of law and humanity, in order to enable heartless avarice to drive its hungry serfs back to the mines to faint and die at their drudgery.

And there remains today not one guaranteed right of American citizenship of which an injunction has not somewhere made a crime, started by these subversions of constitutional liberty.

We have met to counsel together and have come to the following conclusion that,

WHEREAS, The present strike of the coal miners has again demonstrated the fact that our so-called liberty is not freedom, but is a stupendous sham, under which millions are degenerating, while hundreds of thousands—men, women and children—are starving in hovels and on the public highway.

WHEREAS, This condition has become permanent for a large and ever increasing number of our population, as long as we permit a comparatively small class of legalized exploiters to monopolize the means of production and distribution for their private benefit, a fact again obvious in the case of miners.

WHEREAS, Appeals to congress and to the courts for relief are fruitless, since the legislative, as well as the executive judicial powers are under the control of the capitalistic class, so that it has come to pass in this "free country" that while cattle and swine have a right to the public highways, Americans, so called freemen, have not.

WHEREAS, Our capitalistic class, as is again shown in the present strike, is armed and has not only policemen, marshals, sheriffs and deputies, but also an armed army and militia, in order to enforce government by injunction, suppressing the lawful assemblages, free speech and the right to the public highway, while on the other hand the laboring men of the country are unarmed and defenseless, contrary to the words and spirit of the constitution of the United States. Therefore, be it

Resolved 1, That we hereby set apart Friday, the third day of September, 1897, as a "Good Friday," for the cause of suffering labor in America and contribute the earnings of that day to the support of our struggling brothers, the miners, and appeal to every union man and every friend of labor throughout the country to do likewise.

Resolved 2, If the strike of the miners is not settled by the 20th day of September, 1897, and announcement made to that effect by the president of the United Mine Workers, a general convention be held at Chicago on Monday, September 27, 1897, by the representatives of all unions, sections, branches, lodges and kindred organizations of laboring men and friends of their cause, for the purpose of considering further measures in the interest of the striking miners and laboring men.

Resolved 3, That we consider the use of the ballot as the best and safest means for the amelioration of the hardships under which the laboring class suffers.

Resolved 4, That the public ownership of railroads and telegraphs is one of the most necessary reforms of our body politic.

Resolved 5, That we most emphatically protest against government by injunction, which plays havoc with even such political liberty as workingmen have saved from the steady encroachment of capitalism, and be it finally,

Resolved 6, That no nation in which the people are totally disarmed can long remain a free nation, and therefore, we urge upon liberty loving citizens to remember and obey article two of the constitution of the United States, which reads as follows: "The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

As soon as the platform was before the convention a dozen delegates were on their feet, clamoring for recognition. One delegate wanted to change the date of the Chicago conference to October 16, claiming the day proposed was too early. The amendment was laid on the table to be taken up later.

Delegate Osborn, of Atlanta, Ga., offered a resolution to the effect that it was the sense of the meeting that all unemployed men in the United States should apply for admission to the poor house of their respective counties. No action was taken on this resolution and the convention went off into a desultory manner regarding the debate.

CONCORDIA'S ROLL.

Lutheran College Has Two Hundred Students.

The Institution Will Open for the New Year Tomorrow—Fifty Freshmen This Year.

Tomorrow the Concordia college will open its doors for the new school year. There is an enrollment of more than two hundred students, fifty of whom are freshmen. The Concordia college course takes six years to complete when the student goes to St. Louis to finish his theological education. The destinies of Concordia have been faithfully watched over by Rector Schick for almost half a century and he taught several of the professors now with the college. He continues to act with the same strength that has been shown in his successful administration of years past.

SETTLED

In the Great Strike in the Columbus District.

Miners Will Go to Work at Sixty-four Cents, to Continue Pending Investigation.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 31.—The coal strike is considered settled here. The plan is to resume at sixty-four cents and work pending arbitration.

The direct parties in this conference of adjustment are President Ratchford, of the United Mine Workers of America, and the executive committee of the operators. A number of the latter were in the city today and the result is that a decision may looked for almost at any moment.

The direct effect of this decision will be the opening of the mines and of the resumption of work by all the striking miners the beginning of the coming week.

An operator here says: "The new figure has been accepted by all but one operator in the Pittsburg district and it is understood has been approved by President Ratchford and other members of the executive committee of the United Mine Workers.

"It is expected that the single operator still holding out, will be finally induced to yield, and that the great strike will thus be brought to a speedy and peaceful close."

Mrs. S. B. Fleming and daughters, Geraldine and Josephine, will arrive from Bear lake tonight and will visit her parents, Capt. and Mrs. Allan H. Dougall, several days before returning to her home at Hartford City.

Degree of Honor No. 28 will give an entertainment at the hall of Maumee lodge No. 30, A. O. U. W., tomorrow evening.

M. App and son, George, have gone to West Baden, where the latter will take treatment.

Hon. O. P. Morgan and wife returned today from Rome City.

EMMA HAAS LED

And the Miners' Wives Marched Past the Deputies.

Four Men Induced to Quit Work—Campers Go Hungry—Gaining Ground in West Virginia.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 31.—Under the leadership of Emma Haas, the Joan of Arc, of Camp Isolation, twenty five women, wives of the strikers, marched to the mine bank of Centre, Pa., at 4 o'clock this morning and succeeded in inducing four miners to stay out of the pit. The women were stopped several times by the deputies, but they forced their way past them and went ahead on their mission. The campers went to bed hungry last night and started out breakfastless this morning, because of a mistake in shipping the provisions to Sandy Creek camp instead of Plum Creek. A liberal supply of provisions was arranged for today.

STRIKERS GAINING IN WEST VIRGINIA.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 31.—The organizers working in the miners' strike in West Virginia are not losing any time waiting for the St. Louis congress of labor leaders to act. In fact, it is not generally believed that anything tangible will result from the conference. Things are being made as comfortable and attractive as possible at the camps, but the cold nights of the past few days have made it decidedly uncomfortable for men not used to outdoor life. A gain of fifteen men was added to the strikers today. Many of the native miners are leaving the mines in disgust since the new men have been imported. The Fairmont output is rapidly showing the cut, but there is enough coal being produced to supply the normal demand. The starving in eastern Ohio is growing more acute daily and some vigorous measures of relief must soon be taken.

JACK FROST

Pays a Visit to the Southern Part of Michigan.

Great Damage Done to Vegetation and the Standing Crop Ruined—In the Northwest.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 31.—A heavy frost is reported to have visited the southern part of the state. At East Tawas a great deal of damage was done to vegetation and the balance of the crop standing was ruined. The frost throughout that section of the country was general.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 31.—Reports of frost come from a few points in southern Minnesota and North Dakota. Late tender crops and garden truck were killed or badly damaged, but none of the reports speak of very serious injury to corn except one from Southern Minnesota, which represents that damage is being heavy to corn and late flax. Wheat is unaffected, being mostly harvested.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Aug. 31.—A light frost, the first of the season, has visited this section but did no damage.

A JEALOUS WIFE.

Mrs. Middleton Stabbed a Pretty Actress Six Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Frances E. Middleton, wife of George Middleton, the theatrical manager, stabbed Belle Carmen, a pretty variety actress, last night, inflicting six wounds. The injuries may prove fatal. Jealousy was the cause. Mrs. Middleton claimed that Miss Carmen alienated her husband's affections. Although the victim of the assault may die, the police permitted Mrs. Middleton to go home after making a statement, saying that she would be on hand when wanted. The assault was committed about midnight at the corner of Clark and Monroe streets, where the women met.

BIG WHEAT CROP.

By Tonight All of 25,000,000 Bushels Will Be Cut in Manitoba.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 31.—Advices received here reported that by tonight all of 25,000,000 bushels of wheat in Manitoba will be cut. There has been no frost sufficient to damage the wheat in Manitoba this season, and next week will probably see the bulk of the wheat threshed. The crop will be the largest in the history of the Canadian northwest. The yield will run as high as thirty-five bushels to the acre, while in Ontario it is as high as forty. The total wheat crop of Canada this year will be fully 60,000,000 bushels of prime wheat.

Tribesmen Dispersed.

BOMBAY, Aug. 31.—Great relief is felt in official circles here at the news that the tribesmen who yesterday blocked the Kohat Pass have been dispersed. Colonel Gordon's column of troops proceeded towards Kohat from Peshawur this morning. Despatches received from Peshawur today say that all is quiet there, though occasional shots are exchanged between the Achase posts and the insurgents.

R. T. McDonald and Judge Taylor, owners of the Elektron building have in view the letting of certain portions of the building, but are not prepared to state who all the applicants are. The Morning Musical has made some overtures for the fourth floor and the new athletic association has applied for a lease rate on both the third and fourth floors. No contract for the lease of any part of the building has been signed over. The work of finishing the interior is being pushed rapidly forward. Some of it is of exquisite design and the material going in is the very best.

MAG AND HER "BO."

Notorious Couple Arrested on the East Side.

They Were Holding a Can-Can—A Bicycle Stolen—Police Court Grist and Other News.

This afternoon Skinny Mag, whose graceful form has not appeared before his honor these many moons was arrested while in company with the notorious "Bo" Steadley. They were holding a cancan on an east side common, both drunk and hilarious.

Martin Lilly, a deputy sheriff of Coldwater, Mich., is in the city today, after having recovered some stolen property over in Ohio. He will return to Coldwater tonight.

M. Graff reported to police headquarters last night that his bicycle was stolen.

Four train jumpers were before the mayor this morning. Two were let go and two sent over.

If the police force fails to recognize Superintendent Gorsline tonight it is because he has parted with his mustache. The superintendent now looks very smooth.

Pete Collins, who has been a special for some time, will take the beat that was traveled by Officer Knock, who is now acting sergeant in place of Sergeant Diessler. Mr. Diessler's condition is somewhat improved, but it is thought that he will not be able to go to work for several weeks.

Charles Schlatter, who was employed at the electric works, has disappeared from the city. He did not draw what salary he had coming at the works and on Saturday his wife received a letter from him telling her to get what was due him. He did not say where he was going. The police have not been notified of the man's disappearance.

ANOTHER PULPIT

Will be Occupied by Rev. Theodore Stellhorn.

Called to Sandusky, Ohio—Helped to Found the Grace Lutheran Church, Which Loses Him.

It will be a matter of regret, and yet congratulation, that Rev. Theodore Stellhorn, pastor of Grace Lutheran church, has been called to a pulpit charge at Sandusky, Ohio. The call has been accepted and Rev. Stellhorn will leave for his new field of labor as soon as his successor is appointed. He was one of the founders of the church which has known him as pastor since the organization seven years ago, and while the members of his flock will be sorry to lose him, they will not stand in the way of his rise in the theological world.

CUBANS FIGHT.

First Engagements Reported for a Long Time.

Many Killed and Wounded on Each Side—The Insurgents Were Surprised.

HAVANA, Aug. 31.—General Linares, in the province of Santiago de Cuba, has been engaged with an insurgent force. The enemy lost two men killed and the troops lost thirteen men killed, including two captains. The horse of General Linares was struck by two bullets and killed.

A Spanish column, consisting of 1,200 men of all arms, under the command of General Luque and Colonel Sotomayer, recently left Holguine, province of Santiago de Cuba, with the intention of attacking an insurgent force which occupied a strongly fortified position at Sabana de Becerro. The troops camped nine miles from the enemy's position without being observed and during the night the Spanish commander ordered two guerilla companies and three companies of Spanish infantry to surprise the enemy. The Spanish forces approached close to the insurgent camp and then rushed upon it, under a heavy fire, from two sides and captured it. The insurgents were completely taken by surprise and fled in disorder with the loss of sixty men killed, according to the official report, and carried away their wounded. The insurgent general, Estrada, is said to have been wounded in both legs. The troops lost fourteen men killed and had thirty-six wounded.

SHOT TO KILL.

Deputy Sheriff Murphy Quite Free With His Gun.

Visits the Minneapolis Jail and Shoots the Husband of the Matron.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 31.—There was a sensational shooting affray at the county jail shortly after midnight this morning. James L. Murphy, a deputy sheriff, succeeded by virtue of his official position in getting access to the jail. He brought with him a woman of the town, who he said was under arrest, and sent for Matron Woodburn. Having thus cleared the way he entered the latter's apartments and opened fire on her husband, Chris H. Woodburn, who was asleep in bed. He fired eleven shots, five of which entered Woodburn's body, exclaiming: "I'll teach him to ruin my daughter."

The watchman rushed in and prevented Woodburn, who had by this time secured his own weapon, from firing on his now retreating enemy.

Murphy gave himself up and refused to discuss the case, except to say that he was a Kentuckian and shot to kill. Woodburn is dangerously, but not fatally shot. He will not talk.

JOHANN MOST.

The High Priest of Anarchy, Will Leave New York.

He is Going to Buffalo to Take Charge of a Newspaper—New York Paper Suspended.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Johann Most, the high priest of anarchy, will shake the dust of New York from his feet for good within a week. Most has decided that New York is no longer a fruitful field for anarchist propaganda and next week he will go to Buffalo to take charge of the Arbeiter Zeitung. The circulation of Most's New York paper, the Freiheit, has been dwindling for the past two years. It stopped publication recently, having simply died of inanition. The autonomist group deserted Most years ago and even the communists were beginning to declare that he was not half radical enough.

"Yes," said Most when seen about the matter, "I am going to leave New York for more congenial fields. New York is not what it was since our brethren were martyred in Chicago."

HUNTING A WIFE.

And is Credited With Already Having One.

Sensational Escapade of Charles Dalrymple, Who is Said to be in the City at Present.

Bluffton News: The Cincinnati Tribune contains a sensational article today concerning Chales Dalrymple, formerly of Liberty township and well known in Bluffton. In fact he has been in the city within the last few days. The story of his escapade in Cincinnati, where he has lived for several years is reported as follows by the Tribune:

Charles Dalrymple is a barber, and not a confidential clerk in the employ of a railroad. Neither is he a single man, as he represented himself to a Coryville young lady whose hand he sought in marriage.

For several months past Dalrymple has been paying attentions to Miss Flora Heckle, a highly esteemed and respected young lady, to whom he has been quite devoted, and to whom he proposed marriage. A few days ago Dalrymple left the city for a vacation visit to Fort Wayne, Ind., where he represents his parents live.

It now develops that he has a wife there, who has been absent from the city the whole of the summer. Since Dalrymple's departure, through the efforts of the lady he had deceived, the true facts concerning him were made known.

Her suspicions were at first aroused by the discovery that he was known by another, or two more, names than the one by which she knew him. This led to an investigation and the expose of his falsity and misrepresentations.

Dalrymple is rather polished and a good dresser. It was easy, therefore, for him to win the good graces of a large number of respectable young ladies from which to choose his victim. He is twenty-six years of age, but represented that he was two years younger. He claimed to be an employe at the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railway company's general offices at a good salary, and held out many inducements to the young lady who, however, has proven herself too sharp-witted to be caught by his cunning.

His exact whereabouts are not now definitely known, though he went ostensibly to Fort Wayne. It is probable, however, that he has changed his plans and does not propose to return to Cincinnati.

Dalrymple was persistent in pressing his suit, and expressed a desire that the wedding take place in October. There was not, however, an acceptance on the part of the lady, and no plans had been made for the marriage, it being her purpose to ascertain who and what he was. This she has done wisely and well.

The SENTINEL requests the hearty cooperation of the secretaries of various orders in making the "Lodge Column" better than ever this year. They can do it by sending in all that is going on in their ranks, both in regular work and social affairs. Total	[illegible]

There are additional assets amounting to a large sum, but most of it is unavailable and practically worthless. These assets are as follows:

Loans secured by stock of association (past due)	[illegible]
Loans secured by stock of association (not due)	[illegible]
Taxes and insurance advanced on loans	[illegible]
Judgments	[illegible]
Interest and premiums due and unpaid	[illegible]
Bills receivable	[illegible]
Office furniture and fixtures	[illegible]
Misappropriation by C. E. Rhoades	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]

Of the above amounts something can perhaps be realized from all but the last two. These, amounting to $74,413.81, are practically valueless, as the bills payable consist principally of notes given by the absconded secretary to replace money used for his own account.

FLAMES FLASHED.

And Engineer Joseph Pearlman Was Badly Burned.

Exciting Accident at the Artificial Ice Plant—Conrad Klein, a Painter, Also Burned.

Joseph Pearlman, the engineer of the Artificial Ice works, met with an accident this morning which came near being a fatality. Mr. Pearlman was cleaning out one side of the double furnace under the boilers, and to assist him in the task he turned on the natural gas in order to blow away the accumulation of ashes and dirt. He did not think of the danger attending such an operation while the fire in the adjoining furnace was lit, and unconscious of possible results he was close to the furnace door when the escaping gas caught from the flames and caused an explosion which shook the building. The man was hurled backward and the fire enveloped his body, burning his chest to a blister. With great presence of mind he threw up both arms, thus shielding his face from the flames. Although the injury was very painful Mr. Pearlman had the burns dressed and pluckily stayed at work.

BURNED HIS ARM.

Conrad Klein, the Lafayette street painter, while using a gasoline blow lamp to burn off paint this morning was seriously burned on the right arm and he will be obliged to have the limb carefully hung in a bandage for some time to come.

BURNS FATAL.

Child Suffered Agony for More Than a Week—Mr. and Mrs. William Brandt Lose a Child.

Edith C. Harris, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Harris, died last night from the effects of burns which she received a week ago last Sunday. The injuries were not thought to be fatal at first, but inflammation set in a few days ago, making her recovery hopeless. She suffered intensely ever since the accident. Edith was four years old and was a bright, interesting child. The funeral will be held Wednesday, at 2 p. m., from the house, 56 Huestis avenue.

Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brandt, of 61 Washington boulevard, died this morning of cholera infantum, aged six weeks and two days. The funeral will be held Thursday from the house.

THIS promises to be a decisive week in the miners' strike. One side or the other must shortly give in. In many localities the miners are on the verge of starvation. On the other hand, winter is approaching and the coal supply is running short.

SCIENTISTS at their recent Detroit convention figured out that 3,000 years from now Lake Michigan will rise above Chicago. However, an immediate bear movement in Chicago real estate need not be expected.

A LARGER acreage of wheat will be sown this year than usual in this county. There is a good profit in raising wheat at ninety cents per bushel, and the shortage in the world's crop makes it quite certain that prices will range high for another year at least.

THE sale of the Evansville Courier to a syndicate is confirmed by the court at Evansville, and the property finally passes from the control of John H. Shanklin, who, with his brother, had ably conducted the paper for many years. The Courier will continue Democratic.

THE new premier of Spain has served notice on the United States that it will not be well for this country to interfere in the matter of the Cuban rebellion. That is a brave threat, but it will make every body smile. Spain's pride leads her to make a ridiculous show of herself every now and then.

THIS advice of returning Klondikers is decidedly aggravating and is not given in a manner to carry weight. What's the use of telling a man that he shouldn't start to Alaska right away and then describe in glowing words the gold to be had there by the working. The descriptions of wealth and the pictures of hardships are not of the same intrinsic value.

THE steamer Portland brings great stories of fortunes from the Klondike. Last week great fortunes were made in speculation in wheat. But as the speculation in wheat was near home we know something of failures, and consequently keep hands off. News of successes travels faster than news of failures. The men who have failed in the Klondike are not coming home to tell about it. Many of them can't get back. Nothing is said of the hundreds who have dug and worked all summer and washed out nothing better than ordinary gravel, and who will have to seek charity this winter.

TOM WATSON, the noted Georgia politician and late candidate for vice-president, has about made up his mind to retire forever from active politics. He has concluded to sell his newspaper and will hereafter devote his entire time and attention to the practice of law and literary work. In his opinion the populist party is certain to go to pieces. Mr. Watson has written a "History of France," the first volume of which recently appeared and is highly spoken of as a work of rare merit. Mr. Watson's law practice has increased wonderfully of late years. He is very much in demand in criminal cases. It is said that he has been earning a good deal of money of late.

AS some of the British papers view the situation, Russia has virtually captured India by getting the upper hand of the British government. Russia has already taken from Great Britain the control of Turkey, and Russian diplomacy is threatening British supremacy at various strategic points from Afghanistan to Abyssinia. A study of Russia's movements during the past few years will show a gradual rise in the importance of that empire, and a gradual advance in its influence until it seems almost ready for a gigantic movement that will make the czar master of Europe and Asia, if not of Africa. This seems like a preposterous assertion, but the taking of Corea from Japan, the valuable railway privileges obtained from China, the influence exerted over Turkey, the negotiations for a Russo-Franco-German alliance against Great Britain, which promise to be successful, and the uncontradicted reports that Russian officers and Russian arms helped Menelik to drive the Italians out of Abyssinia, together with Russia's steady advance through Central Asia to the borders of India, all indicate the coming dominance of that mighty empire, while the fact that most of its conquests are now made by diplomacy, and not by war, does not detract from their importance, nor will it lessen their permanence.

PRESIDENT McKINLEY will attend the reunion of his old regiment, the 23d Ohio, next Thursday. That regiment has some special claims to distinction. It gave the country two presidents—Colonel Hayes and Private McKinley. Its first colonel, Rosecrans, was commander in chief of the union army at Stone River and Chickamauga, and is one of the few survivors of high rank. The first lieutenant colonel of the regiment, Stanley Matthews, became a justice of the supreme court of the United States. Another regimental field officer was General Comly, who subsequently commanded a brigade and was minister to Hawaii. President McKinley served as a private fifteen months, and five months as a sergeant. His knowledge of carrying a knapsack is not theoretical.

Better Than Riches.

The best gift a father can bestow upon his children is the gift of a good education. Money may be lost, and character may be lost with it; such double wreck is not uncommon. Money given to an uneducated or ill educated child is almost sure to be lost, for the fool and his money are soon parted. No one can rob the possessor of his inheritance, and he cannot give it away. There are holes in his pockets and wealth slips out; but wealth of the brain is safely invested. Moreover it brings if not the other wealth, what is better, a competence and a capacity to enjoy it. Ignorance may buy books, but cannot read them; music, but cannot enjoy it; pictures, but cannot appreciate them. The wise poor man gets more out of his life than a rich fool. Finally, on the lowest ground, a good education is the noblest bequest, for there is always an opportunity for brains in America, and America always pays a fair price for brains. Competence in brains is always sure of competence in pocket; wise men are rarely rich, but they are rarely poor and never paupers. The well educated do not gravitate to the almshouses nor to the penitentiary. The best provision a man can make for himself or his wife in old age is a good education given to his children. He who has three or four children, well equipped in mind, strong in will, rich in love, has the safest annuity and the best life insurance.

WONDERFUL!

A Christian Physician Who Tries to Make Men Better in Body and Soul.

Affidavits From Her Minister and Lawyer.

Dr. N. B. Smith, No. 107 Calhoun Street.

It is doubtful if the columns of any newspaper in the state ever recorded a more wonderful restoration of health than that of Mrs. A. J. Augustine as a result of a medical treatment by Dr. N. B. Smith, of Fort Wayne. Her attorney informs us that he considers it a miracle, as she certainly was considered in a hopeless condition mentally and physically."

We will give Mr. Augustine's statement just as he gave it to us:

"I have been married fifteen years and our home has been made happy by five children. My wife had enjoyed good health until about five years ago. She was taken then with an attack of rheumatism, which soon produced heart disease. I noticed that she was getting weaker and that her nervous system was very much broken down. I took her to the Hot Springs, in Arkansas, where we staid six months, but she got no better. We then returned home and again tried our family physician, but my wife got no better. She became very yellow and could neither eat or sleep. She said her existence was full of misery and prayed for death to relieve her of her sufferings. Dropsy now set in and she became almost completely helpless. Her mind began to fail and I was requested to send her to the insane asylum, but this I would not do. I could not find it in my heart to send her away when I believed that she would soon die. One of my friends induced me at this time to call on Dr. N. B. Smith, the eminent specialist of our city. I did so. After a careful examination of her he stated that he could cure her. I confess I had no confidence in any doctor, but decided to do anything for my wife that could be done. The doctor began his treatment and in a short time we all saw an improvement in my wife's condition. Her dropsy disappeared, her heart got better, her mind clearer and stronger, her appetite improved and she slept better. I now consider my wife perfectly well and she owes her life and health to Dr. Smith."

Mr. Augustine's statement is attested to by the following affidavits:

I hereby state, under oath, that the above statement of A. J. Augustine is true to the best of my belief.

SAVED BY A FLASH.

"Father," said my son Donald to me one day, "father, how do they take those wonderful photographs of lightning flashes that are printed in The Strand Magazine? They don't know when a flash is coming and can't make it stay still while they photograph it, can they?"

"Not likely," I laughingly replied. "The lightning takes itself. If there is a thunderstorm at night, all that is necessary is to put a sensitive plate in the camera, uncover the lens and point it at the sky, when the next flash of lightning will record itself upon the plate, which must then be developed in the usual way."

"Is that all?" returned Donald. "How very easy! Couldn't we take some? Do let us try."

"All right," I replied, "but first of all we must wait for a thunderstorm. So when there is another at night get your photographic traps ready, and we'll see what we can do."

Donald and I were enthusiastic cyclists, he being one of several years' standing, but I only since we came to live here in Woodford, on the borders of the New Forest, as I found it very convenient to ride to the railway station—five miles away—or to Salisbury or Southampton, as our village lies midway on the high road between those towns.

Charmed by the lovely forest scenery, I had lately practiced the fascinating science of photography, and thereby secured many a beautiful scene of woodland glade. Donald, too, soon waxed enthusiastic over it and many a cyclophotographic day did we spend securing pictures of the exquisite scenes that abound around our home.

The marvelous photos of lightning flashes that appeared in the Strand had excited Donald's wonder and curiosity, leading to the conversation with which this story commences.

We had not long to wait for a thunderstorm, for on that very night raged one of exceptional violence. It began about 11 o'clock, and Donald, who had retired to bed some time before, burst into my room fully dressed and shouted:

"Come on, father. There's a tremendous thunderstorm coming up, and such flashes of lightning! I'm off to the dark room to put some plates in the slides, so get the camera ready. The front bedroom window is the best place to expose from."

Here let me state that our house stands about ten feet from the roadside, and the view from our front windows comprises the road and the common opposite us, a small piece of waste land partly surrounded by the noble trees of the New Forest.

By the time that I had made the necessary arrangements at the window, Donald rejoined me, bringing three double dark slides loaded with the sensitive plates. "We ought to get at least one successful photo out of this lot," said he.

Soon the storm, which had gradually been drawing nearer, burst over us with terrible fury, the lightning flashing with amazing brilliancy, the thunder rolling with deafening roars. One by one the plates were exposed under conditions that justified the expectations of good results, and Donald was in high glee. Just as I was about to expose the sixth and last plate he said:

"Why don't you take a flashlight photo of the common with that one, illuminated by the celestial electric light, you know? Point the camera toward the center of the common, just for fun. I'd like to see how it comes out."

I acted upon his suggestion, and no sooner had I got the camera in position than a flash of lightning, so vivid and brilliant in its intensity as to momentarily blind us and wring from us a fearsome and terrified "Oh!" imprinted the scene on the sensitive plate.

"I'm glad that's the last plate," said Donald when the deafening peal of thunder allowed him to make himself heard, "for I should not care to stand at the window during another such flash as that. Shall we develop the plates tonight?"

"Not if I know it," I replied. "Be off to bed now, and we'll do them the first thing in the morning."

But we didn't, for we were awakened early by a violent ringing of the bell, and upon going down in my dressing gown and opening the door I beheld the village constable with white, haggard face, on which fear was strongly marked in every line.

"Oh, sir," he gasped, "will you come over on the common with me? There's the corpse of a man lying there, and I fear he's been murdered, for there's a knife stuck in his breast. I want you to come as a witness before I touch the body."

"Lying on the common! Murdered! Impossible!" I said. "But wait a moment till I have dressed, and I'll come with you."

The constable's tale was only too true, for there, lying on the damp grass, his hair and clothes sodden with last night's rain, with upturned face and with the blade of a large knife buried deep in his heart, lay the corpse of Ivan Solenski, the handsome young tenant of the Hermitage and suitor for the heart and hand of the lovely Marie Devereux of Forest Hall. While the constable guarded the body I hurried for the doctor, who, upon his arrival, declared that life had been extinct for some hours.

"Good heavens!" he ejaculated, "this knife belongs to Gerald Merrilees! See, here are his initials!" And there, on the silver mounted handle, were the letters "G. M."

That evening Gerald Merrilees, the handsome well built young owner of the Home farm and Solenski's rival for the affections of the beauteous Marie Devereux, was arrested on a charge of murder, upon the sworn information of the butler of Forest Hall, who deposed that, on the previous evening, Merrilees had had a stormy interview with Miss Devereux, in which Solenski's name was mentioned several times and that Merrilees had suddenly dashed out of the house, muttering: "I'll kill him! I'll kill him!" Upon this evidence, and that of the knife found in the dead man's breast, Merrilees was committed for trial at the forthcoming assizes about to be held at the guildhall, Winchester.

Doubtless the reader remembers the account of the trial which was published so fully in the daily papers of the time, but in case he may not recall it to mind I might here briefly give Merrilees' defense. In spite of the strong proofs of his guilt, he persistently declared himself innocent and pleaded not guilty. He fully admitted the truth of the evidence of the butler of Forest Hall, and his counsel explained that he had that evening proposed for the hand of Miss Devereux, but had been rejected, upon which he had accused her of favoring the suit of Solenski, and when she admitted that she had that day accepted Solenski his jealousy and rage overpowered him, being a very hot tempered fellow, causing him to rush from the house, uttering the terribly incriminating threats now used as evidence against him. After leaving Forest Hall—his counsel continued—reason gradually prevailed, and he proceeded to go home, his path lying across the common in front of my house.

Being anxious to arrive there before the threatening storm broke and partly to cool his fiery temper, he ran, but his foot catching in the stump of a furze bush caused him to fall heavily to the ground, and with such force as to render him unconscious.

He declared that his pockets must have been rifled by some malicious passerby while he lay in that state, for whereas he fell on his face, when he recovered consciousness he was lying on his back. He reached home too weak and dazed to think or observe, but great was his surprise the next morning to find his pockets empty. Watch, chain, purse, loose cash, hunting knife—which he always carried—and everything, all gone.

Counsel dwelt strongly upon this fact, and maintained that the accused was not the culprit, but that when lying unconscious the real murderer robbed him, taking, among other things, the knife used with such fatal effect upon Solenski—whose pockets he also rifled—leaving the murderous weapon in the dead man's breast, to divert suspicion from himself to its innocent owner.

For further details, I must refer the reader to the very full reports of the trial which appeared in the local papers at the time, merely contenting myself with stating that the jury smiled, in that supercilious, superior sort of way common to the British juror, at the palpable weakness of the defense, and, having satisfied themselves as to the prisoner's guilt, after a short consideration they returned their awful verdict of guilty! Gerald Merrilees was sentenced to death.

Some time after the foregoing events I was sitting up awaiting the arrival of my wife and son, who were returning from London by a midnight train—or, rather, an early morning one—reaching Dean Station at 2 a. m., after which they had to drive the intervening five miles home.

It was weary work waiting. I had finished reading my novel and was looking about for something to do, when I suddenly thought of the plates we had exposed on the night of the thunderstorm and had lain undeveloped and forgotten till now. "The very thing!" I exclaimed. "I'll set to work and develop them at once. It will pass the time nicely."

The first plate developed was a failure. Why, I don't know, for I immediately threw it away and commenced another. "Ah!" I thought, "this one is something like a photograph." Truly, it was a most wonderful photo of lightning, the wavy lines of fire—there were four, springing from one stem—streaming down from the dark and angry heavens right on to the earth, where the trees of the New Forest in the background were sharply silhouetted against the tongues of fire, from which little side streams spread out in all directions. I felt, and still feel, proud of that photograph, for it caused no little excitement in the scientific world. The next plate was a bit of a mystery to me, for it was a negative of the landscape in front of our house and I wondered when it was taken, until I remembered that Donald had asked me to take it as a flashlight landscape view with the last plate on that memorable evening of the storm. As development proceeded, and the objects became more and more distinct, I was surprised to see several human figures portrayed in it. With a magnifying glass I gave it a closer examination, the result of which made me tremble with excitement.

"Good heavens!" I exclaimed. "This is a photo of the murder of Solenski!" And indeed it was, taken at the identical moment that the crime was committed. There was the whole scene unerringly depicted on the plate by that brilliant flash of lightning. I examined the plate more minutely, and the result was startling in the extreme. There was the murderer in the very act of plunging the knife into Solenski's breast.

The faces of both men were plainly distinguishable, and—that of the murderer was not Gerald Merrilees' but of a small, ill-favored man with a heavy beard, and there, farther in the background, was the inanimate form of an unconscious figure, lying [illegible].

[illegible] Merrilees is innocent, after all! [illegible] that we should have taken this photograph and thus be able to prove his innocence! Tomorrow I will go to Winchester with it and procure his release.

[illegible] I [illegible] "Tomorrow!" Why, to[illegible] [illegible] after [illegible]. In four hours all will be over, another victim sacrificed to [illegible] of justice. What was I to do? Twenty miles from Winchester with no means of communicating with the authorities to avert the tragedy which would so soon be enacted, here was I with evidence that would save an innocent man's life, and that man a very dear friend too.

What could I do? I groaned aloud in my anguish and great beads of perspiration dropped from my brow.

Just then my wife and son returned and were alarmed to see my agitated state, but upon explaining matters, my wife's ready wit suggested that I should ride to Winchester on my bicycle. The very thing! I jumped with joy and soon after started on my dark and dreary, but fateful ride, with the priceless negative carefully packed to avoid the risk of breakage and its terrible consequences.

I will not go into details of that ride, for only those who have ridden over strange crossroads on a pitch dark night, when a friend's life depends upon their speed and dispatch, can sympathize with me.

At 6:45 that same morning I rode up to Winchester jail and demanded to see the governor immediately, and upon being admitted to his presence showed him the heaven sent witness, which he deemed of such importance that he telegraphed at once to the home secretary, giving him details of my marvelous photograph, with the result that in this eleventh hour Gerald Merrilees was reprieved—he was saved.

The nature of the evidence that established Merrilees' innocence and all particulars concerning it were kept strictly secret by the police, who had my negative enlarged and [illegible] of the photograph—wherein the features of the murderer were clearly portrayed—to all the police stations in the kingdom, with the result that within ten days the real culprit was arrested in the foreign quarter of Soho, and upon being charged with the murder confessed his guilt, stating that Solenski was an absconding nihilist, who had fled to England to avoid carrying out a horrible task imposed on him by the peculiar rules of that dreaded society.

By so doing his life became forfeited and to the murderer was allotted the duty of carrying out the society's vengeance. Hoping to escape, Solenski had lived in retirement in our village, but was tracked by his inexorable executioner, who stated that on the night of the great storm he had come across the prostrate and senseless form of Merrilees, from whom he took everything available, including the fatal knife with which he stabbed his victim—whom he accidentally met immediately after leaving Merrilees—just as the defending counsel had surmised at the trial.

In due time Merrilees received a full and unconditional pardon—for a crime that he had never committed—and I should not at any time be surprised to hear of his engagement to Miss Devereux.

He and I are the strongest of friends, as he says he owes his life to me, but I tell him that it is not so, but that he owes it to the magazine that prompted us to take the photos on that eventful night, The Strand.—Tit Bits.

The Forest of Fontainebleau.

Fontainebleau has no conspicuous charm. There are few noble trees. The one of any excellence has a refreshment bar to celebrate it and finger posts for miles around guide you to the giant Jupiter. Jupiter is indeed a splendid relic, a straight column towering above the puny moderns, 12 paces round the swelling roots, 6 yards in girth at the height of a tall man. Between Barbizon and the road to Paris there is a tolerable glade of elms, but from one end of the forest to the other there is nothing comparable with the oaks of suburban Epping or with the beeches and oaks of the New Forest. There are no thickets, no tangles of undergrowth; the diligence of the administration keeps the forest as clean as a kitchen garden; the thriving young trees in sedate regularity are as orderly as a regiment on parade; one imagines each numbered and docketed in a prodigious inventory. This bureaucratic husbandry brings with it a lamentable absence of wild life.

There are no arenas purple with bluebells, no banks of primroses or lush glades dappled with cowslips, and animals are still rarer. In the remotest parts of the New Forest the underwood creeps and rustles with living things, the ground is black with hurrying insects, the air trembles with flashing wings, call notes of birds and beasts assail the ears and every step from the beaten track drives some creature from its lair. Here the wildest groves, which the naturalist would expect to find thronged with multitudinous life, have the silence of an empty room. Some malign enchantment has depopulated the forest.—Saturday Review.

Rubber—Good heavens, man! How did you cut up your face like that!

Sedley—Well, you see, I can't stand a barber's continual chatter, so I hired a dumb one to come and shave me every morning.

Rubber—And he didn't know how to shave, eh!

Sedley—Oh, yes, he could shave all right, but he would persist in talking to me on his fingers while working.—Up to Date.

BLACKBOARD EXERCISE IN AFRICA.

Putting the baby to bed is the good night joy of a happy, healthy mother. Many mothers delegate this motherly duty to a nurse. Some mothers hardly see their babies the livelong day. This is not because they are without mother-love or the natural impulses of a womanly woman. It is because of their own ill-health and broken nerves, and because baby is also sickly and peevish. This unfortunate state of affairs might have been avoided had the mother, during the period of expectant motherhood, taken the right care of the delicate organs that make maternity possible. A woman should at these keep these important organs well and strong. Her own health and that of her child depend upon it.

The best medicine for prospective mothers is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes healthy and strong the organs that bear the burdens of maternity. It cures all disease and weakness. It makes comfortable the period preceding motherhood and renders the advent of baby easy and nearly painless. It insures a healthy child. The pains and suffering that women endure, as a result of weakness of the distinctly feminine organism, vanish under its use. All good druggists sell it. There is nothing "just as good."

"I want to tell you," writes Mrs. N. A. Thomas, of 400 Pulaski Street, Little Rock, Ark., "that my daughter, Mrs. [illegible], who lives in Texarkana, Ark., had been under the doctor's care for four years. I lately sent her word to try the medicine which cured me, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and I have just heard that it has done her more good than all the doctors."

"The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser" explains symptoms of ailments common to every family, and suggests remedies. It has several chapters on woman's diseases and weaknesses. MAKING PLANS

For the Enlargement of the Knitting Mills.

An Addition 50 by 200 Feet and Three Stories High is Contemplated—Shop and Rail.

The Wayne Knitting Mills company has instructed Architects Grindle & Wetherbee to make plans for a three story addition to the factory, the new part to be fifty by two hundred feet. This substantiates the predictions of The Sentinel, made several weeks ago, that the knitting mills were soon to be enlarged to nearly double their present capacity. As soon as the drawings are complete, bids upon the erection of the new building will be received and as soon thereafter as possible work upon its construction will be taken up. Before the winter months arrive, the company expects to have the proposed addition completed and equipped with all the modern machinery for making hosiery.

A POWERFUL FREIGHT ENGINE.

The largest, heaviest and most powerful freight engine ever designed for the system is being constructed to haul ore from the lakes to Pittsburg, over the Pittsburg and Lake Erie. It will not differ materially from the standard Pennsylvania railroad freight engine, except in size and weight, but it will have double the hauling capacity of the class "R" freight engine now in use. The boiler of the new engine is seventy-two inches in diameter and twenty-four feet in length. The steel sheets in the barrel of the boiler are 12-16 inch in thickness, fastened with 1-inch rivets. It will contain 410 flues, and will carry 210 pounds of steam. The naked boiler will weigh 43,150 pounds. The engine is of the consolidation type and will weigh when completed ninety-six tons. The wheel centers are of cast steel; the full diameter of wheel, fifty-six inches. The cylinders are twenty-two by twenty-eight inches. The guides will be of steel, of the 2 bar type. The tender tank is constructed of 5-16-inch steel and will have a capacity of 4,500 gallons. It is expected that the new engine will haul forty-five loaded cars up the mountain from Altoona. The most powerful freight locomotive now in use hauls but twenty loaded cars up the same grade. When in service on the Pittsburg and Lake Erie road it will be used largely for hauling cars of 100,000 pounds capacity.

A SHOPMAN MARRIED.

At 7 o'clock this morning, at St. Patrick's Catholic church, Rev. Father Delaney performed the ceremony which made William O'Connor and Miss Mary Ryan husband and wife. The groom is a machinist, who has been employed in the Pittsburg shops for five or six years, and the bride is the daughter of Andrew Ryan, one of the best known employes in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop. The couple have arranged to reside on Bass street.

AT WORK UPON A NEW PLAN.

The architects in the draughting department of the Pittsburg are now engaged in making drawings of a proposed new freight house and a change in the shops, which are entirely different from the plans and specifications gotten up three years ago and which were described in these columns at that time. The new plans contemplate the removal of the round house and the south portion of the machine shop building, in which are located the offices of the master mechanic and the shop clerk, and the store room, and the erection on the grounds of a large freight building. The plans also contemplate the building of a two story wing to the north end of the machine shop building, in which will be located the offices and the store room, with a frontage on Clinton and Holman streets. The round house will be removed to the east side of Lafayette street and built upon a scale commensurate with the increased size of the modern locomotive. The present round house's stalls are two short by two or three feet to accommodate some of the engines now in use on the road.

MINOR MENTION.

Pittsburg Engineer Philip Titus is off duty on account of sickness.

Pittsburg engine 317 was taken into the shops for repairs this morning.

John Singleton and A. Wilda, Pittsburg firemen, are sick and off duty.

Passenger Engineer Peter Riley, of the Pittsburg, is taking a week's vacation.

Captain J. C. Kensill, the well known Pittsburg shopman, is attending a Grand Army meeting at Marysville today.

The Road Masters' association will hold its annual meeting next month at Old Point Comfort, beginning September 18.

The official report shows that the Lake Shore carried into Buffalo last week on account of the G. A. R. encampment 37,110 people.

Chief Dispatcher W. H. Tigner is out on the Crestline division of his territory today, looking after matters pertaining to his office.

Nickel Plate passenger engine 158 has been turned over to one of the eastern divisions, after several years service on this division.

The Baltimore and Ohio has a coal chute at West Fairmont, W. Va., that fills a tender of a locomotive with coal in eight seconds.

The Chicago and Rock Island on Saturday had 1,800 car loads of corn standing on side tracks at South Chicago awaiting opportunity to deliver.

Passenger Fireman J. H. Ryan, of the Pittsburg, and his wife have returned from Canton, Ohio, where they spent ten days with relatives and friends.

Sherman Cutshall, clerk in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop office, has joined the ranks of the cyclists and can now be seen on the streets in the evening, riding a Cleveland wheel.

Passenger traffic on the Panhandle lines the last few days has been so heavy as to necessitate the borrowing of a number of coaches from the Pennsylvania lines east of Pittsburg.

Nickel Plate engine 51 left the Stony Island shops yesterday and will go into the freight service in the fourth district in charge of Engineer George Stevens and Fireman John Dickson.

William Gibson, formerly division superintendent on the Big Four, on September 1 takes the title of assistant general superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio, with headquarters at Pittsburg.

The Great Northern road is hiring a large number of engineers off of the roads in this section. Five left the Wabash last week to go to the Great Northern and three left the Chicago and Eastern Illinois.

Andy J. Huber, of the Pittsburg planing mills, had the misfortune to drop a heavy end sill upon one of his feet last evening, mashing two of the toes so badly that he was unable to report for duty this morning.

T. M. Pierson, first assistant grand chief of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, writes that the differences between the Colorado Midland and the dispatchers have been adjusted in an entirely satisfactory manner to all concerned.

Joseph Buckley, of the Bass blacksmith shop, is kept from his work by the serious condition of his wife's health. During the terrible hot term last July the lady suffered a sunstroke and has been more or less affected ever since, at times being quite poorly.

H. F. Bokelewer, night foreman of the Nickel Plate round house, and his wife and children have gone to Fort Dodge, Iowa, to visit a daughter and sister, who was recently married here and who now resides in that city.

The Wabash earned in the third week of August $254,946, an increase over the corresponding week of 1896 of $24,915. This overcomes all deficit in gross earnings since July 1, and leaves the road $600 ahead of the corresponding seven weeks of 1896.

The new steel cars are making their appearance on some of the Pennsylvania lines, and their performance is being watched very closely by railway officials, as many believe that on the large systems in a few years they will succeed the ordinary wooden car.

The New York Central and West Shore have made arrangements with the Hudson river line of day steamers to accept tickets for passage from Albany to New York city, and passengers now have the option of going from Albany to New York by boat or rail.

Evan Gillespie, a Chicago and Erie brakeman, died at his home in Huntington, Ind., Friday night. About two weeks ago he had two of his fingers badly mashed while making a coupling at Kenton. Blood poisoning set in, resulting in lockjaw, which caused his death.

The railroads of the United States last year paid into the pockets of the private companies owning cars $5,000,000. The Joint Traffic association, in its early days, promised to wipe out this system of robbing stockholders, but the number of private lines has increased largely the last few months.

David Watterson is again an employe of the Nickel Plate, commencing work yesterday as a brakeman. Some years ago Mr. Watterson held a conductorship on this road, but failing health compelled him to quit and seek a less arduous occupation. He has been restored to health since and now returns to his favorite occupation.

The Olds Wagon works are having a run on farm wagons that surpasses any business experienced by that company since it engaged in the manufacture of vehicles. It is simply impossible to supply the demand for wagons, although in the efforts to do so some of the departments of the shop are kept in operation sixteen hours per day.

Fireman Frank Schafer, of the Pittsburg, has resumed his duties on the road, after an absence of three or four weeks on account of the sickness and death of his father, mention of which was made in The Sentinel a short time ago. The deceased was the Pennsylvania's agent at Monroeville for a number of years, but for the past ten years had been living in Michigan.

Frank Guinty, of Lima, Ohio, who is well known here, was badly injured by a fall from his bicycle a few days ago and has since been unable to work. The unfortunate man is a local freight brakeman on the Pittsburg road. He is a brother of Mrs. Mulcahy, the widow of the late Conductor Thomas Mulcahy, who was stricken down by sun stroke at Mineral Beach, Ind., six weeks ago.

Passenger engines on the Detroit division of the Wabash now double daily between Detroit and Peru, changing crews at Montpelier. The distance between the two terminals is 200 miles. On account of the heavy G. A. R. travel last week engines 174 and 412 were transferred from the main line to the Detroit branch to haul the long passenger trains. It is probable that engines of this class will be kept regularly in service over there.

Perry Van Alstine, Pittsburg fireman, has taken a vacation for the purpose of attending the fall races and county fairs in Indiana and Ohio. He will drive Hellen K., a flyer owned by one of the Pittsburg engineers, in a number of races. Hellen K. made her first appearance on the track at the Huntington races a few weeks ago, when she won the third prize under very adverse circumstances. In the second heat one of the sulky tires came off at the start.

Shipments from the electric works today include a 60-light dynamo to Greenfield, Mass., another machine of the same capacity to Port Clinton, Ohio, and a small incandescent dynamo to Clinton, Ky.

Motive Power Superintendent J. B. Barnes, of the Wabash, is in the city.

Paul Wend and William Wortle, of the electric works, have returned from a squirrel hunting expedition into the wilds of DeKalb county.

Frank Bentley, a beltmaker, has resigned a position at the Olds Wagon works and will go to Cincinnati to work for the Royal Wheel company.

Williard Knight has gone to Detroit, Mich., to look after some business for the Electric corporation, which will keep him there several days.

On account of the August appropriation having been exhausted, the Wabash shops were practically closed today. They will be in full operation tomorrow.

Claim Agent J. L. Head, of the Wabash, was in the city yesterday. He is the champion marksman of the state and will probably return here on Labor day to participate in the shooting match.

Edward S. Hurlbut, shipping clerk at the Olds Wagon works, is a victim of hay fever and has the malady in a worse form this year than he ever had it. He is entirely incapacitated for business today.

Engine 252 is in the Wabash shops being rebuilt, and when the mechanics have completed their work, this engine will be practically new and one of the best in the freight service on the eastern division of the system.

The Lake Erie and Western company announces that it will make a round trip rate from Fort Wayne to Muncie of $1.25 on Labor day. The company also announces that it will run a special train north out of that city at 8 o'clock on the evening of that day to accommodate those who may wish to remain in Muncie later than the hour at which the regular train will depart. The state Labor day celebration is to be held in Muncie this year.

J. D. Clangner, who has been looking after the interests of the Bowser Oil Tank company in West Virginia for the past year, has returned here. He says the strike has paralyzed business in that state and until the matter is settled and the miners return to work, he will be unable to accomplish anything in the way of selling goods down there. He has been temporarily been assigned to territory in northwestern Indiana and left this morning for that part of the state.

The car builders at the east car shops have commenced work upon a new style of car designed for hauling large fly wheels. It will have a drop platform, which will be only eight inches from the rails and which will be sixteen feet long and five or six feet wide. The Bass works has often felt the want of such a car and because of there being none, has frequently been obliged to build wheels in two or three sections that, with better shipping facilities, could have been built in one solid piece much quicker and cheaper.

[illegible] the Work [illegible] Are Illustrated.

A [illegible] piece of apparatus used by Prof. [illegible] John F. Woodhull, of the New York Teachers' college to illustrate the principle of ventilation [illegible] of two [illegible] a [illegible] board [illegible] two holes [illegible] The [illegible] chimneys stand [illegible] over [illegible] hole. The object is to show how the draft of any burning substance can be made to carry off unpleasant odors, fumes, etc. The candle is lighted and burns in the chimney which is [illegible]. If [illegible] match is held at the mouth of the other chimney, the smoke [illegible] flow down [illegible] the chimney in which the candle is burning. This [illegible] the lighted candle gets its draft through the other chimney, and the air rushing down one and up the other carries the smoke from the match along with it. The reason the air does this is because the heat of the candle flame expands the air in the one chimney and forces it upward. The atmosphere, in order to even matters, supplies more by way of the only channel left open to it.

Now, a coal mine is freed from its foul air and new, fresh air is drawn into it in exactly the same way. The entrance to some mines is comparatively small when the large excavations beneath the surface are taken into consideration. The air in the mine easily becomes foul and soon becomes unfit for human beings to breathe if some ventilation is not secured. It is only necessary to have two shafts and to build a fire at the entrance of one of them in order to secure the desired result.

If the fire is made to get its draft down one shaft and up the other, as in the case of the lamp chimneys, all of the foul air will be drawn out of the mine, and a corresponding quantity of fresh air will be drawn in. The danger of explosions of fire damp will also be averted, inasmuch as this deadly gas is drawn out and dissipated before it can collect in sufficient quantity to do damage. Of course there are now hundreds of contrivances for drawing foul air out of mines, but they are no more efficient than a simple furnace at the entrance of a shaft. A striking example of the value of a fire for the purpose of getting rid of foul odors is afforded in a jail in Newcastle, Del. It seems that the jail was built over a sewer which emptied into the river nearby. The odor from the sewer filled the jail and made it a very unhealthy place to live in. The nuisance was abated by building a furnace and smokestack in one corner of the jailyard. A hole led down from the furnace to the sewer pipe. When the fire was lighted, the bad air in the pipe was drawn up by the fire and sent out of the stack many feet above the jail.

Something of this nature takes place when a storm occurs on a hot day. The air in a certain spot becomes heated and in expanding is forced upward, drawing with it a certain amount of moist air from the neighborhood surrounding the heated spot. The moisture in the air rapidly condenses when it reaches the cooler strata above, and, turning to water, descends to the earth again in the form of a shower.—Atlanta Constitution.

Old Corks.

The following extract from a recently published interview with an old cork merchant shows that old corks are anything but useless.

"These," said the interviewed, leading the way to a long, high room, lined on each side with immense wooden bins, "are all old corks. The first bin you see is filled with mixed or broken cork articles. I pay something like fourpence or sixpence a pound for this refuse, and after being washed in hot water and then dried it is ground fine and sold to linoleum manufacturers at 2 shillings a pound.

"These are what we call 'screws,'" he said, leading the way to a bin of old ginger beer and wine bottle corks. "By 'screws' we mean that the corks have been pierced by a corkscrew, which, of course, renders them unfit for remaking into new corks. So we put them through a 'coring' machine, which cuts the inside out of them and leaves a hollow tube. The tubes are then sliced into rings for use in beer and ginger beer bottles. The best quality of wine corks, bought by us for less than a twelfth of their original cost, we obtain from the big west end clubs and restaurants. It is very seldom that the corkscrew goes into the corks in high priced wine, therefore it is an easy matter for us to make them into apparently brand new corks. If it were not for our trade, corks would be twice the price they are at present. We make an enormous number in a year. I employ six men to gather them, and each man has a list of hotels where he must call every week.

"Yes, it is a fairly good business, but when I first started it was better than it is now. Other people soon found out that I had a good thing and followed my example. One man has already made a snug fortune out of old corks and is now fitting up new machinery which will enable him to turn hundreds of old corks into new ones in less than an hour."—London Standard.

Ungrateful.

"That ungrateful son-in-law of mine," said the fat man with chin whiskers, "wouldn't take a good job when I got him one."

"What kind of a job was it?"

"Why, there was a fellow wanted a good, stout man to try a new air ship."—Indianapolis Journal.

Bicycle Repairmen's Views.

Bicycle repairmen are in a position to judge the merits of the different kinds of tires brought to them for repairing. They are generally unbiased in their opinion as to which tire is the best until they try to repair it, then they soon find out which is the easiest to repair, and which stays repaired when it has been fixed. The following from a dealer and repairman in Clarksville, Tenn., may be of interest to riders.

"Single tube tires are not at all popular here, for nobody can repair them when they have trouble. I consider myself a pretty good repairman and I have never been able to plug one of them so it would hold any length of time. Nearly every rider of single tubes here has changed for Morgan & Wright."

Here is another from a repairman in New York city:

"I have used M. & W. tires for the last three years and the more I handle them the better I like them. I repair, on an average, about one M. & W. tire to five single tube tires. It is not that there are only a few M. & W.'s in this district, but because when they are once repaired they don't break out again in the same place, like a single tube."

A Cambridge City, Ind., man also says:

"I think I am a pretty fair workman, and believe I can repair a single tube tire as often as any one, but I meet with failure oftener than success, and, indeed, find that the single tube is generally unsatisfactory. I don't see what any one can see in a tire of this type that recommends it."

Still another from a Terre Haute, Ind., bicycle firm:

"They can say what they want about single-tube tires, but we notice they give up and come back for the M. & W. when they want a tire that will give good satisfactory service. We had no trouble at all with the Morgan & Wright tires, and are going to use them this year."

To Remove a Tight Ring.

When a finger grows so thick that a ring cannot be taken off, an easy way to remove the swelling is as follows: A narrow rubber band is taken and placed several times around the finger near the nail, and while the hand is held up the band is slowly rolled down until it reaches the ring. This is repeated several times, and after a few minutes it will be found that the finger is thin enough to permit the ring's being taken off without the slightest difficulty.

The misfortunes hardest to bear are those which never come.—James Russell Lowell.

HAY FEVER!

It Can be Cured by Hirons' Double Treatment.

Read the Testimonials of Persons Permanently Cured of Hay Fever, Catarrh, Asthma and Kindred Complaints.

Hay Fever or Hay Asthma is of [illegible] called [illegible] Bronchial and Nasal affection. The immediate cause and source of irritation [illegible] attacking individuals during the months of May, June and August. The pollen of hay, dried grasses and rag weed comes in contact with the nasal and bronchial membranes, invading all these air passages, causing [illegible] irritation, frequently [illegible] persons afflicted therewith. The great discomfort and suffering, say nothing of the loss of life caused by this terrible disease, may be avoided by using Hirons' Double Treatment, which is a sure, safe and permanent cure. Commence using the medicine at once, and get your system in condition to resist the effect of these agencies upon the mucous membrane, thereby keeping the tissues in a healthy condition.

A Hay Fever Victim Made Happy.

The Hirons Medicine Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

GENTLEMEN:—I have been afflicted with Hay-Fever in its most malignant form for years. The first attack would appear in June. During August and September my sufferings were intense. Water would run from my eyes and nose, the paroxysms of sneezing were uncontrollable, and I had terrible burning pains in my head. I learned of your Double Treatment for Catarrh and Hay Fever and procured it at once. After having used three bottles of the remedies I was entirely cured. I heartily endorse your valuable medicine, and advise all Hay Fever sufferers to give it a trial. (Signed.)

CATARRH.

What the Resident Manager of the Chicago Newspaper Union has to Say.

The Hirons Medicine Company, Fort Wayne, Ind.

GENTLEMEN:—Your Mr. A. R. Hirons persuaded me to give your Double Treatment for catarrh a trial, and after having used it about 30 days, I can honestly say that the results have been very satisfactory. I have been a sufferer from the disease since childhood, and was so bad at times that the membrane would bleed constantly. By the use of your medicine I have stopped the bleeding, my head is greatly relieved, and I have no more difficulty with my breathing. Yours truly

Hemorrhage of the Lungs Cured.

Miss Anna Schoeph, who resides at 103 W. Superior St., says: "I take great pleasure in signing the following statement: All my life I have been afflicted with a bronchial cough. A year ago I had a hemorrhage of the lungs. Since that time for months I have been troubled with hemorrhages. I was advised by a friend to use your New Asthma and Cough Cure. I have taken four bottles of the remedy. I have no more soreness in my lungs and the hemorrhages have ceased. I cannot say enough in the praise of your medicine.

(Signed,) ANNA SCHOEPH.

Cured of Catarrh.

The Hirons Medicine Co.:

DEAR SIRS:—I am twenty-eight years old, had Catarrh all my life. For years my appetite was bad. I could not sleep well. I was becoming deaf. The disease in my head became so bad that one could hear the air escape from my ear. To sum it all up, the disease was killing me by inches. I heard of your double treatment for Catarrh and began the use of the medicine at once. After using eight bottles of your remedies, I am happy to say, that I have a good appetite, I sleep well, my deafness is cured, and I have gained sixteen and one-half pounds in four months. I advise every one who has Catarrh to give your medicine a trial.

New Castle is the one club in the Inter-State league which Fort Wayne has lately been able to defeat without much trouble. In yesterday's game enough runs were made in the first inning to win, although it is claimed that Umpire Keefe called a two-base hit by Miller a foul and lost the New Castles out of two runs which the hit sent across the plate. Keefe, however, is known as a home umpire and unless it was foul he would never have called it so. Minnehan's pitching was not as good as Hewitt's, but the support given him was of the gilt edged kind, and as a result Fort Wayne chalked up a victory. Cooke played short stop. Fitch has been suffering with a sore hand for several weeks, and when he left Fort Wayne it was believed he would remain at his home in Youngstown when the team reached there. The New Castles and Fort Waynes are playing another game this afternoon.

YESTERDAY'S GAMES.

Youngstown, Ohio, Aug. 31.—In the tenth Rosebrough let down and four singles and a double were made; nine men were at bat. The score:

Base Hits—Youngstown, 17; Dayton, 8. Errors—Dayton, 3. Batteries—For Youngstown, Brodie and Zinram; for Dayton, Rosebrough and Greenwald.

Mansfield, Ohio, Aug. 31.—Ely pitched a fine game and led the batting for Mansfield. Poole was hit hard and his support was miserable. The score:

Mansfield	1	0	0	4	0	4	0	1	*	10
Springfield	0	0	2	1	0	0	0	0	2	5

Hits—Mansfield, 13; Springfield, 10. Errors—Mansfield, 3; Springfield, 5. Batteries—Ely and Lynch; Poole and Merick.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 31.—The game was won in the last inning by some good slugging by Wheeling and was exciting. The score:

Wheeling	0	1	0	4	0	0	0	2	3	10
Toledo	1	0	5	0	1	0	0	0	0	7

Base Hits—Wheeling, 12; Toledo, 12. Errors—Wheeling, 1; Toledo, 2. Batteries—For Wheeling, Campbell and Donahue; for Toledo, Derby and Arthur. Umpire—Colgan.

NOTES.

The Blocks would like to play any team in the city from twelve to fifteen years old. Address John Bostick, Manager [illegible] East Wayne street.

Sharp is doing the best batting for the team on the trip.

Jim Corbett will play first base for the Fort Waynes at Lakeside park, Thursday, September 9.

Captain C. Brannigan, of the Hanna Street Ball club, announces to meet the Crystals on the diamond next Sunday.

"Silver" Stahl has fallen down in his batting during the last two weeks. He makes way up with the leaders anyhow.

Cooke plays in one position just as well as another. His work yesterday at shortstop, where he really belongs, was high class.

Fort Wayne can finish in fourth place easily enough if they will play the same kind of ball every day that they played yesterday.

Kansas City wants to try "Jimmy" Kilen, but President Meyer says there are only two ways to get him—by purchase or by the draft.

The Giants defeated the Game Boys in a game of ball Monday afternoon by a score of 19 to 7. Batteries—For Giants, Bernard, Moran and Peter Ditton; for Game Boys, Willie Bush and Gates Horton.

The Spy Runs will play two games at Garrett on Labor day. This will necessitate a change in the Robison park league schedule. On September 5 the Shamrocks and Keystones and the Spy Runs and Standards will play, and on Labor day the Blues and Rifles and the Standards and Keystones will come together.

New Castle Current Guardian: "Just what authority certain papers in towns represented in the Inter-State league have for making the assertion that New Castle would not be in the league next season is not known. It can be stated on the best of authority that New Castle will be in the league next season if there is any other club in it. New Castle was one of the first to suggest a league three years ago, and was one of the foremost to enter into the project and at this late day there is no talk of dropping it."

Toledo Bee: "Manager Strobel says that Ervie Beck has not been sold to the Philadelphia team or to any one else, and it is still problematical whether or not he will be disposed of. George Stallings, manager of the Phillies, is after Beck and several telegrams have been exchanged between the big Phillie and Mr. Strobel. The latest telegram was received by Mr. Strobel yesterday and stated that Stallings would have to wait until Wednesday before he could see the owners of his team and secure their permission to deal with Strobel at the latter's terms, which are understood to be considerably in excess of the draft price. It is possible that Philadelphia wants Beck bad enough to pay the price and if they do, there is little doubt that the second baseman will be sold and Bill Hassamaer given a chance to cover second base for the balance of the season."

Youngstown Telegram: "Umpire Keefe, who is acknowledged as one of the most competent men in his line, will, after seven years of service, retire with the conclusion of the present Inter-State league season. It is possible and quite probable that he will branch out as a base ball manager and will be at the head of a team when the season of 1898 opens. Mr. Keefe says that in all his experience he has never found his duties so arduous as during the present season. The displays of rowdyism have been more frequent than in any previous year and the life of the umpire has been made a burden. Keefe states that he experienced no difficulty whatever in taking care of the Inter-State games until the past three or four weeks, when the wrangling and rowdyism broke out in the National league. From that time the minor leaguers followed the example of the older heads and the trouble continues to grow. He says that he positively will not endure the abuse that has been heaped upon him and that for no amount of money will he be tempted to officiate another season."
